Q. 1. Whether software is regarded as goods or services in GST?
Ans: In terms of Section 2(10) of the CGST Act 2017, development, design, programming, customisation, adaptation, upgradation, enhancement, implementation of information technology software and temporary transfer or permitting the use or enjoyment of any intellectual property right are treated as services.

Q. 2. What are the implications of recognising the development, design, programming, customisation, adaptation, upgradation, enhancement and implementation of information technology software as a service?
Ans: The primary implication is that the place of supply rules applicable to services would apply to determine taxability of the supply of software services. The same would be applicable in situations of supply of services involving a temporary transfer or permitting the use or enjoyment of any intellectual property right. The other implication is that the supplier of software services would now be liable for the tax on the composite supply.

Q. 3. A is a dealer in computers and computer parts having turnover of Rs 1.8 lakhs in a year; does A have to register under GST?
Ans: Yes, a dealer located in a State or Union Territory whose aggregate turnover is a financial year exceeds twenty lakh rupees, is liable to be registered under GST. This limit of turnover for a special category State is ten lakh rupees. A, whose aggregate turnover is only Rs.1.8 lakhs in a year, is therefore not liable to registration.

Q. 4. The registered person B receives small portions of software code from individuals who then integrates and supplies as a package to clients. These individuals each have small turnover of Rs 5 to 10 lakh, and therefore are not registered in GST. Whether there is any liability on B in respect of services provided by such individuals?
Ans: If the supplies are made by unregistered suppliers, GST is liable to be paid by the recipient, who is a registered person, under Section 9(4) of the CGST Act, 2017. Therefore, in this case B is liable to pay GST on services provided by these individuals; B can claim credit of any tax paid by him on reverse charge.

Q. 5. What is the rate of tax on IT services?
Ans: The rate of GST on IT services is 18%.

Q. 6. Whether exports of software services attract GST?
Ans: Exports and supplies to SEZ units and SEZ developers are zero-rated in GST. Zero-rating effectively means that no tax is payable on exports but the exporter/supplier is entitled to the input tax credit on input/output services used in relation to exports. The exporter has two options for zero rating, which are as follows—

1. To pay integrated tax on supplies meant to be exported and get refund of tax paid on the supply is exported.
2. To make export supplies under a bond or letter of undertaking and claim refund of taxes suffered on inputs and input services in relation to such supplies.

Q. 7. How do I determine whether IT services provided by me constitute export of service?
Ans: The supply of any service is considered an export of service, where the following conditions are met:

1. The supplier of service is located in India;
2. The recipient of service is located outside India;
3. The place of supply is outside India;
4. The payment for such service has been received by the supplier of service in convertible foreign exchange; and
5. The supplier of service and the recipient of service are not merely establishments of a distinct person in accordance with explanation 1 of Section 6(21) of the IGST Act, 2017.

Q. 8. How do I determine the place of supply of IT/ITES services?
Ans: The place of supply of IT/ITES services is the location of the recipient in terms of Section 12 and 13 of the IGST Act, 2017. However, if the recipient is not registered and his address is not available on the records of the supplier, the place of supply would be the location of the supplier.

Q. 9. How to determine the location of the recipient?
Ans: Location of the recipient of service is defined in Section 2(14) of the IGST Act. A recipient of service is treated as located outside India if a place of business where he receives services is outside India, or if he does not have a place of business, his usual place of residence is outside India.

Q. 10. Would I be liable to pay GST on reverse charge even if the foreign supplier of software from whom I buy for use in my firm registered under GST was to accept the payment in Indian Rupees?
Ans: Yes, you would be liable to pay GST. A supplier is treated as an import of service if the following conditions are satisfied:

1. The supplier of service is located outside India;
2. The recipient of service is located in India;
3. The place of supply of service is in India;

Q. 11. I am an Indian Company making software and sell it outside the country. I have hired a firm (not a related party) to get abroad to facilitate the supply of software in Europe and the USA; would I be liable to pay GST on the payments that I make to this entity abroad?
Ans: No. In this case, C is covered by the definition of ‘intermediary’ (Section 2(13) of the IGST Act, 2017). The place of supply of such intermediary service is the location of the supplier in terms of Section 13(9) of the IGST Act, 2017. As C is located outside India, GST is not payable in this case.

Q. 12. What factors determine the location of C in question 11 as being outside India?
Ans: In terms of Section 2(15) of the IGST Act, 2017, the location of a service provider is to be determined by applying the following steps sequentially—

1. Where a supply is made from a place where a branch of the business has been taken is the location of such place of business;
2. Where a supply is made from a place other than the place of business for which registration has been obtained (a fixed establishment), the location of such fixed establishment;
3. Where a supply is made from more than one establishment, whether the place of business or fixed establishment, the location of the establishment most directly concerned with the provision of the supply; and
4. In absence of such places, the location of the usual place of residence of the supplier.

Q. 13. I am an agent in India of a foreign ITES provider (principal located outside India). For agency services, I bill the principal in convertible foreign exchange. Whether GST liability arises in this case?
Ans: Yes, an intermediary and the place of supply of the service provided by you to the principal in India irrespective of the mode of payment is the place of supply of service under GST.

Q14. I have more than one SEZ unit in different States; do I need to take separate registrations? Also, I have two SEZ units in one State. Can I take a single registration?
Ans: Yes. Under GST, every entity shall take GST registration in each State from which it makes taxable supplies. However, a single registration can be taken for all your SEZ units within a State, whether located in one SEZ or more than one SEZ.

Q15. I have a unit in the DTA and another in the SEZ; can I take a common registration?
Ans: No. A person having units in a Special Economic Zone as well as outside the SEZ in a State, shall make a separate application for registration for SEZ units as a business vertical distinct from his other units located outside the Special Economic Zone in that State (Refer Rule 8(1) of CGST Rules, 2017).

Q16. If I supply a laptop bag along with the laptop to my customer, what would be the rate of tax leviable?
Ans: If the laptop bag is supplied along with the laptop in the ordinary course of business, the principal supply is that of the laptop and the bag is an ancillary. Therefore, it is a composite supply and the rate of tax would have to be applied to the laptop.

Q17. Am I obtaining online database access services from a company abroad over the net, would I have to pay tax on reverse charge?
Ans: The recipient, if registered, has to pay the applicable IGST on reverse charge basis, if the recipient is not registered, the manner is treated as an online information and database access or retrieval service (OIDAR) and the OIDAR service provider is liable to pay transaction and tax.

Q18. When would it be construed that I have made a supply of services involving temporary transfer or permitting the use or enjoyment of any intellectual property right?
Ans: Generally, the End User Licence Agreement (EULA) is the legal contract between a software author or publisher and the user of that application governing the usage. The agreement is renewable and could be amended from time to time. To find out as to whether there is an element of supply involved when software is delivered to its customer, the terms and conditions of EULA are material. The software license agreement assumes significance in this test to decide whether or not there has been temporary transfer or permitting the use or enjoyment of any intellectual property right.

Q19. What special provisions are attracted in GST with regard to associated enterprises?
Ans: An enterprise which participates, either directly or indirectly, through one or more intermediaries, in the management, or control of the other enterprise is an associated enterprise. In the context of GST, associated enterprise is particularly relevant in the case of supply of services, where the supplier is located outside India. In such cases, the time of supply will be the earlier of date of entry in the books of account of the recipient of supply or the date of payment – thus, with associated enterprises, any supply under GST is attracted once such book entries are made even if no actual payment takes place before the invoice is issued.

Q20. What would be the tax liability on replacement of parts (no consideration is charged from a customer) under a warranty and whether the supplier is required to reverse the input tax credit?
Ans: As parts are provided to the customer without a separate consideration, no GST is chargeable on such replacement. The value of supply made earlier includes the charges to be incurred during the warranty period. Therefore, the supplier who has undertaken the warranty replacement is not required to reverse the input tax credit on the parts/components replaced.

Q21. An Original Equipment Manufacturer (OEM) has a service obligation to provide repair services to their customers in the warranty period. This activity is outsourced by OEM to “D”, who bills the OEM for the services he provides to the customer. What is the tax liability of “D”?
Ans: “D” is providing service to OEM. GST is payable on the value of supplies made by “D” to OEM i.e. in respect of bills raised by “D” on OEM.

Q22. How will the defective parts be sent to the mother ware house/repairing centre for repair by the down stream repairing centres? What is the tax liability?
Ans: The defective parts shall be sent for repair by delivery challan accompanied by such a way-bill as may be prescribed. GST shall be chargeable on the repair amount, including the cost of parts, charged by the repair centre.

Q23. What is the tax liability in a scenario where supplies are made from multiple locations (in different States) to the recipient under a single contract?
Ans: Delivering services from various locations and integrating pricing for the contract as a whole is the norm in ITES industry. Normally, the contract or agreement with the recipient is entered into by one of the branches (let us say “Main Branch”). Therefore, in such cases of service delivery from multiple locations of the supplier to the recipient, the supply could be visualized as consisting of two distinct supplies. First supply—the different branches of the supplier located across different States are making the supply to the main branch which entered into a contract or an agreement with the supplier for the supply of such service. Second supply—main branch is making a supply to the customer. GST is to be levied accordingly. In such a scenario, the main branch will get input tax credit of GST paid by the other branches on supplies made to them by the main branch.

Q24. In the scenario envisaged in previous question, the main branch is said to be entitled to IT of the GST paid by the other branches. Thus, it is a revenue neutral situation. What are the valuation guidelines for such services?
Ans: No separate format for invoices to be issued in the case of reverse charge payment of GST.
